Testimonials from 2008 mentees:

'It was most enlivening to have two eminent professionals look at and discuss my work, and inspiring that they were interested in my idea and encouraged me to pursue it, with very practical suggestions for future development.'

Helen Blake, Wicklow Artist

It is not easy to remain confident in one's practice, given the many 'knock-backs' one receives as an artist. It is therefore really important to have occasion to get constructive feedback from colleagues, and to have someone in whom one has confidence, to point out those things of value in one's work. These were objective viewpoints given by established practitioners and art educators, and I felt encouraged, and nudged in directions I needed to consider.

taking action.

The co-operation of all community sectors is required here – Carlow Local Authorities alone cannot eradicate the problem. Therefore as part of the consultative process Carlow Local Authorities are organising public meetings,
